2. Netykieta

eTwinners should conduct their online interactions professionally, politely, and respectfully as they would do in their real-life interactions. Below are some examples of what users should and should not do.

1. Careful and responsible use of the internal message system

Refrain from sending too many messages to teachers with whom you are not working. Before contacting a user: check their profile; check if they are available for projects; make sure your message is relevant. Do not send the exact same message to more eTwinners.

2. Avoid spamming in forums

The eTwinning Live partner forums generate thousands of messages. Make sure that your message considers the subject of the thread. Before publishing a new post, check to see if there are other relevant messages on the subject and reply to them. Help us keep the forums relevant to improve collaboration!

3. Only post relevant and appropriate comments on people's posts

When posting a comment on somebody else's profile, make sure it is relevant to the user. Comments must be for individuals and related to the user's post. Do not write the same comment to more users.

4. Avoid random contact requests and project invitations

Avoid asking eTwinners to be part of your contacts or to join your project without any previous communication. Make sure you have a reasonable and manageable number of contacts in your list. Do you want to keep track of someone's updates? Follow them instead.

5. Targeted events invitation

Avoid inviting your contacts to events you are organising, unless you are certain that these colleagues can participate. Random invitation to events organised in your school will be considered spam.

Our Padlet

We created a shared Padlet as a collaborative space to showcase and share all the activities from the Fostering Tolerance project. It brings together contributions from all participating students, allowing everyone to see, comment, and reflect on the work done to promote respect, inclusion, and understanding. The final product is a rich, interactive collection of ideas and experiences that highlights the importance of tolerance across our schools.

Interactive Map Promoting Equity and Women in Science

We created an interactive map to highlight remarkable European women scientists. This project promotes gender equity by showcasing their achievements and inspiring students to value diversity and the role of women in science across Europe.

Sharing Our Mobility Experience: Dossier and Activities from Poland

Spanish students have carried out a dissemination activity to share what they did during their mobility in Poland.

Podstawowa School sent us a dossier with a selection of the activities, which they have now shared with their Spanish classmates.

Spreading the Message: Learning, Sharing, and Involving Everyone

Students and teachers who participated in the mobility shared their experiences with the school community. They also prepared presentations using Canva to showcase what they learned and lived during the project.
